
Gay couples becoming Dads? Check your sperm DNA to make the best choice

SpermComet[®]
The Next Generation Male Fertility Test

SPERM DNA TESTING

Who will be the biological Dad of your child and how will you both decide?

For a gay couple there is a conundrum. Either of you could become the biological father, so whose sperm will you use? Who will be the biological father of your child and how will you both decide?

Will you toss a coin? Or simply swirl your semen together and hope for the best? For many gay couples this is too random a way to make such a weighty decision.

The smart way is for you both to weigh up chances of success first, by checking your sperm health with the SpermComet test. When you have this information, you can make an informed, wise decision together on whose sperm to use to make the baby of your dreams.

SpermComet® reveals your Sperm DNA Health.
